Clayton King, a teaching pastor at NewSpring Church, and his wife Sharie will be featured Thursday, Feb. 18. Dr. Don Wilton, best-selling author, former NGU Trustee, and senior pastor at First Baptist Spartanburg will speak Thursday, March 18. Dr. Johnny Hunt, former president of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC) and senior vice president of evangelism and leadership for the North American Mission Board (NAMB), will speak Thursday, March 25. All services are held in Turner Chapel on the Tigerville Campus.

"BCM is both humbled and honored to welcome these incredible ministers to our stage. BCM is currently in a sermon series entitled "Role Models," and I cannot think of any one group more qualified than these individuals to represent "Christlikeness" and to serve as role models among the NGU family than these distinguished individuals," said NGU BCM Director Joshua Gilmore.

For over thirty-three years, Clayton King has been preaching the gospel all over the world. He joined the staff of Newspring Church, the largest church in SC, in 2016, where he currently serves as one of the teaching pastors. He and his wife Sharie will be ministering together as a couple on Feb. 18 through a discussion on romantic relationships.

A native of SC, Clayton mapped out Crossroads summer camp's beginnings in his college dorm room. Over twenty years later, Clayton King Ministries has expanded into a multi-faceted parachurch organization that serves students, church leaders, and congregations across the United States. He has also written several books and studies, including "Stronger," "The True Love Project," "Overcome," and "Grounded."

Clayton lives in Anderson and mostly spends his time traveling, preaching, and speaking at churches, conferences, and leadership events. He is the husband to Sharie and father to two sons, Jacob and Joseph. He loves good books, black coffee, four-wheelers, traveling, and anything that gets him outside and in the woods.

Hunt's educational credits include a BA in Religion from Gardner-Webb University, where he was voted "Ministerial Student of the Year" in 1979. He continued onto Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, where he earned a Master of Divinity in 1981. Southeastern honored him in 1997 by naming him The Chair of Biblical Preaching in his honor in 1997. He has also received several honorary doctorates over the years for his work in ministry.

Hunt and his wife, Janet Allen Hunt, have two daughters Deanna Carswell and Hollie Hixson, and four grandchildren, Katie, Carson, Hope, and Addie.

"I do not want anyone to miss out on what God is doing at NGU's BCM. Everyone is welcome to attend, and everyone will be blessed in their attending," said Gilmore.

All three events are held on Thursdays from 7-8:30 p.m. in Turner Chapel. The University welcomes all members of the community to attend free of charge. Pastors are encouraged to bring their church staff and members of their congregation.

NGU's vibrant BCM hosts events that provide opportunities for students to grow in faith, build discipleship skills, and develop ministry giftedness. Some of the ways students can plug-in and participate are weekly worship, impact teams, commuter luncheon, IGNITE Conference, REVEAL hands-on community project, and CONVERGE.
